Spartan Spotlight
This week's Spartan Spotlight is...

Wisnu Raja, an international student from Indonesia. Wisnu is a junior majoring in supply chain management and is the president of the Indonesian Student Association, also known has PERMIAS.

We asked Wisnu: what makes a good leader?

"In my mind, gaining the respect and appreciation of your team and the group of people you represent is what makes a good leader. Indonesia being a very multicultural country makes our student organization very diverse - culturally and in the sense of perspectives. Hence, cultural and perspective awareness is a vital characteristic to be a good leader."

What advice would you give to someone going into a leadership position for the first time?

"My advice for someone going into a leadership position for the first time is to understand the system you will be operating your organization in. With student organizations, a lot of situations student leaders face includes funding, administrative forms, acquiring equipment, and following regulations. To make it easier on your organization, it is best if the leader understands his resources and how to utilize them."
